

Intercultural Communication a starter pack – workshop

You'll dive into understanding your cultural identity, share personal experiences, and discuss how cultural differences shape interactions. From discovering different communication styles to learning the nuances of giving feedback across cultures, this workshop is also an opportunity to share your insights. You'll gain valuable tools that will help you navigate and thrive in diverse environments. It's perfect for anyone looking to broaden their horizons and collaborate effectively in today's global academic community!

How Will We Work?

This is an interactive session that requires active participation. In addition to learning the theory, you will engage in group discussions, brainstorming, and conceptual tasks. This approach will give you the opportunity to deepen your knowledge and skills.

Please note: During this workshop, we will be engaging in group activities that may involve louder sounds and a dynamic pace. Please consider this before deciding to join the initiative.

What will you learn?

How culture shapes identity and influences our perception of the world
What lies between the lines in intercultural communication
How to communicate effectively both offline and online in an academic setting
What to expect when giving and receiving feedback across cultures
How culture impacts our daily interactions with others
What we can do to succeed in communication with people from different cultures